“ Sandy my love goes out to you I want to share this as it helped me cousin Veronica
We are connected my son and I by a invisible cord not seen by the eye
It's not like the cord that connects us at birth
This cord can't be seen by any on earth
It's stronger than any cord man can create
It with stands the test and can hold any weight
And though joe has gone and he is not herer with you that cord is still there
But no one can see
It will pull at your heart you will be bruised and sore
But that cord is your life line as never before
We must be thankful that god
Connects us this way. A mother and child
Death can't take it away
My love and understanding Veronica

“ I'm so sorry to hear of this. So absolutely sorry. I wish I was closer to show my respect and celebrate his life with all of you. Joe was the first person to talk to me & become my friend when I moved to Eatonville in middle school. He was my first childhood love, and a good friend throughout the years. I enjoyed playing music with him, he was an amazing guitar player and one of the best drummers. He was always sweet, silly and fun loving. I have so many pictures & memories of us growing up, dressing all crazy and causing trouble in that small town. Love always, Jill Smith

“ Dear Family - So sorry for your loss. Please find some comfort that Joe is with his creator and at peace. My thoughts and prayers are with all of you. I remember Joe as a sweet, quite young man that despite his size and stature was a strong and hard worker. I know he was loved by many and his legacy will live on in his children.

May God Bless all of You.

“ I would like to thank family, friends and people God put in our path to help get us through this unexpected loss. I'm sincerely so grateful! The prayers comforting words and generosity mean so much, words cannot express. I appreciate the heartfelt comments and pictures all of you have taken the time to post on reflectingonmemories.com, I know his children will enjoy reading them. Thank you for reaching out through text messages, phone calls, posts on face book and your presence.

My heart is at peace knowing that Joe loved the Lord and never denied that. When he was going through trials and tribulations I would always remind him to pray and he always assured me he was. I miss him so very much. I rest on the promise the Lord gave us that we will all be joined again in Heaven. Sincerely, Sandy

As of today it appears the cost for Joes service will be met, however for those of you who asked about making a contribution or would like to. I have set up a Savings/Trust account for both his children. I know Joe was concerned about their future so he would be thankful to know this fund has been created for Kylie and Evan. Any amount is appreciated. You can also send to me and I will make sure any amounts will be split into each account

“ To the whole Domici family,

I cannot and never hope to feel the pain of losing a child. I am so passionate about protecting my family. Joe was a part of that family by giving me two of the most awesome grandchildren I could ever have. Joe's and my relationship wasn't perfect. I think he was a little scared of me to tell the truth (I can be formidable when it comes to my children and grandchildren's well being). But I respected Joe, more than he ever knew. He was always straightforward with me. He always treated me with respect. When we disagreed, it was with logic not emotion. We discussed things. As a mother, I could tell how well he was raised. And he loved my grandchildren even though he couldn't always be near them. I know he loved them. When I heard Joe had passed, I mourned. I cried and felt a deep sadness. No child should lose their Dad and I was sad at all the things they would never have a chance to experience with him.

When you see Kylie and Evan, you can see so much of the Domici family in them. Evan looks JUST like Joe. A mini Joe. There are some pictures posted on here that look like they could be Evan's school pictures! Especially the one where Joe is missing a front tooth! And Kylie, she really takes after Sandy and Jodi. She has their smile. We want them to know the Domici family and be part of their lives. We always have. When you all were having Joe's funeral service, my daughter Angela was holding a memorial service with the kids at the same time. We couldn't afford to fly her to the service but she wanted to make sure that the kids had a way to be a part of it. They shared their memories and lit candles - much the same as you were doing.

They are great kids - Joe left a beautiful legacy. They need all the family they can get. Please let them get to know you. A card or a phone call is always welcome.

I want to thank Sandy, who despite her own grief, has reached out to my daughter. It means so very much to all of us. Angela is really having a difficult time accepting this and is going through the "I wish I had done this...." or "Maybe if I had done that, he would still be here". We have no control over when it is someone's time to go.

Jodi, I have lost a brother so very close to me. I am here if you need to talk.

Sandy, God bless you. My heart is with you and your entire family. I am a phone call away.

My love to you both,

Cathy Gardner (the maternal grandmama)

“ Life can get busy and you lose touch with some good friends. I grew up next door to Joe and to the sounds of drums echoing through the trees. I'll miss you my friend. My condolences to Sandy and Jodi

“ Wanted to share another from a girlfriend of mine: "He was so nice! I remember talking to him at Kacey (Velarde) Oster's wedding. He included me in stuff because I only knew a few of you. He was really sweet!"

“ You were more like a big brother to me. We were close enough in age to hang out and talk. You always gave me great advice and stressed the importance of family. I always admired your big heart and the willingness to help others. The one time I will always remember is when you taught Makala to ride a bike ( without her training wheels). That day is so special to me because I tried teaching her myself and was getting frustrated and impatient with her. After talking to you about my frustration you volunteered to teach her. We went to an vacant parking lot after of 15 minutes of being there with you she was riding her bike like a pro. If not for you she'd still have training wheels. You are forever in my heart. I say goodbye until we meet again.

“ Rest in peace cousin Joe. A fond memory of a rare time we were able to hang out together... In 2010 we went out celebrating his 30th birthday after our annual family reunion. I am so glad to have that memory of a fun night out! I was also happy when he called me after having my daughter to see how things were going and to wish us well. It was a very sweet phone call. ? xoxo
