“ I'll never forget Deb. She was like a mother to me. She always took me on family vacations and always cared about me. You were a light on this earth and we will all miss you.

“ You were a bright flickering light in a storm. You fought hard to live your life and I can't come to terms that you are not here on this earth now. You gave generously and were a joy to be around. I hate that this is in past tense. I will remember you always in a certain song, the bright moonlight, the shores of a body of water, your love for your children and grandchildren, your horrible driving, your always losing track of your things, your selflessness, your newfound passion for cutting glass, your fight through addiction, your will to live and be there for those you loved. RIP dear Debbie. I piece of you will ALWAYS be with me.
